SUNNY DELIGHT!

Soul singer Percy Sledge dies age 73

YANK soul legend Percy Sledge, who learned his trade singing in the cotton fields of his native Alabama, has died aged 73.

His biggest UK hit, When A Man Loves A Woman, got to No.4 in May 1966 and No.2 when it was reissued in 1987, after it featured in Levi's jeans ad.

Coronel Dr William "Bau" Clark of East Baton Rouge Parish, Louisiana, confirmed Sledge died early yesterday morning.

Speaking about his early years in the south, Sledge said: "I was a little boy working in the fields chopping cotton, singing to the older people and they would say that one day my voice would be heard all over the world."

Sledge was working as a hospital orderly, where he would sing to his patients, when he played a college gig and impressed a producer with the song that would become his most famous release.

He added: "I hummed it all my life – even when I was picking and chopping cotton in the fields."

Thrones draws record viewers

HIT telly series Game Of Thrones attracted a record audience when the new series launched on Monday night.

The fifth series of the HBO drama, based on George RR Martin's epic fantasy novels, features Lena Headey, Kit Harington and Emilia Clarke among the cast.

It kicked off with 1.57 million viewers on Sky Atlantic – giving the channel its best overnight performance ever.

The series five launch was also up 29% on last year's opener and was watched by a 6.72% share of all home viewing.

The 9pm drama drew more viewers to the channel than to BBC2 – which had 1.3 million for new documentary series Inside Harley Street, and Channel 5, which attracted 802,000 to Batman show Gotham.

Britain basks in spring sunshine

By TOM RHODES news@sundaysport.co.uk

MILLIONS of Brits are set to enjoy the HOTTEST day of the year as temperatures soar to 25 degrees this week!

A blast of hot air from the North Atlantic Ocean made conditions much warmer than expected for April, with officials saying temperatures are "double the average" in some parts of the country.

And red-hot babes are flocking in their thousands to cool off at the seaside – some even dabbling in a spot of TOPLESS sunbathing!

Photographers spotted THREE sizzling babes at Bournemouth Beach in Dorset yesterday, where temperatures hit a whopping 20C.

But they're not the only ones enjoying the early British heat wave!

All across the country, delighted Brits have been hitting the parks and beaches – from London's Hyde Park to Barry Island in South Wales.

Warmer

According to experts, the weather is expected to cool down later in the week.

But temperatures will still remain higher than the expected average.

And some parts of the country will get even HOTTER, creating conditions normally only seen in July and August.

A spokesperson for the Met Office said: "It is staying sunny and getting warmer, so it will be a good week."

"There will be plenty of sunshine around and it looks like we will see the warmest day of the year so far."

"In some parts temperatures will be double the average for this time of year on Wednesday."

RUSSIAN DESTROYER IN ENGLISH CHANNEL

BRITISH fighter planes were launched yesterday after two Russian military aircraft were seen flying close to UK airspace.

The incident came just hours after HMS Argyll was sent to monitor a destroyer and two other ships from the country as they passed through the English Channel.

Escorted

Typhoons were sent from RAF Lossiemouth in Scotland. A Ministry of Defence spokesman said: "RAF

Quick Reaction Alert Typhoon fighter aircraft were launched after Russian aircraft were identified flying close to UK airspace.

The Russian planes are being escorted by the RAF in the UK area of interest."

It is understood that the Russian aircraft intercepted were Bear H nuclear-capable bombers.

Voyagers based at RAF Brize Norton in Oxfordshire were also sent to provide air to air refuelling support.

GEORDIE SHORE
 stunner Holly Hagan has revealed she shelled out more than £8,000 on her brilliant MEGA-BOOBS!

The 22-year-old reality star has spilled the beans on her bra-bustin' belters, and reckons they're now just the right size.

Holly (above), from Thornaby-on-Tees, said: "I've had two boob jobs and lip fillers twice.

"I spent about £8,000 on my boobs. They're the perfect size!"

The busty model also confessed that she just loves doing TOPLESS photoshoots.

She continued: "I really enjoy it. I get to be feminine and sexy – it's lots of fun."

"When I was at school and told people I wanted to be a glamour model, they said, 'No way, you're too fat!'

"So it's nice to prove them wrong – again and again!"

"I know I'm not a fashion model, but I love doing the sexy stuff. I don't care, they're just boobs!"

Sue quits Twitter over death threats

TELLY lesbian Sue Perkins has quit Twitter after getting DEATH THREATS over claims she would be replacing Jeremy Clarkson on Top Gear.

Last week, the lady lover (above) was incorrectly linked to the vacant position on the BBC programme, prompting a barrage of offensive messages.

And yesterday she announced on Twitter she would be giving social media a break.

She posted: "Guys, post the fabricated story about me & Top Gear, my timeline has been full of blokes wishing me dead..."

"This morning, someone suggested they'd like to see me burn to death."

"All of which goes to say that I'm off Twitter for a bit x."

A pal added: "She's scared, these people are obviously unbalanced."

"The worst thing is it's all a mistake – she never had any plans to replace Clarkson."

FAKE TAN IS DYING OUT!

HERE'S WHAT WE'LL MISS...

Fewer and fewer people are buying fake tan, according to the latest statistics.

The number of bottles sold fell by a quarter in 2014, as women – and some men – opted for a more natural shade of skin colour.

It seems the news hasn't trickled down to THIS lot yet, though, who look like they've been dipped in a vat of Marmite and then varnished.

In other news, Bargain Hunt host David Dickinson last week denied having EVER used fake tan. Instead blaming his Armenian roots.

STRAIGHT TALKING FROM UKIP'S DEPUTY LEADER

We've all bin had by council PR spin

TODAY marks 26 years since the Hillsborough disaster, which took the lives of 96 Liverpool fans on April 15, 1989.

It means another year has passed without there being justice for the dead, although we finally now seem to be getting closer to realising that aim.

My thoughts will be with the families of those who merely went out to watch a football match but never returned home. You'll never walk alone. JFT96.

HOW often has your car disappeared down a great pothole recently?

And how much are you dreading the coming summer months, when your wheelie bin will stink out your garden while it waits two weeks to be collected?

How many times have you opened your local paper to read of such-and-such-a-service being slashed, another being reduced, yet another being "streamlined"?

Let me make an educated guess – QUITE A LOT.

Councils will tell you that this is all down to austerity – but I'm sure you can remember there being potholes and two-week bin collections when Labour was in power, too.

There's no doubt that under the Coalition some councils have received less central government funding than before – and therefore had to cut costs.

But it's where they cut their costs that concerns me most.

What used to be bog standard council services – like library provision, lollipop ladies and meone-on-wheels – face the axe.

Haunting tales from council care homes for the elderly are widespread, and don't get me started on the social services scandals in places like Rochdale and Oxford.

Whatever the problem, and whatever the council's excuse is always money – or lack of it.

But there is one vast department spread throughout local authorities that seems immune to any budget trims.

I'm talking about the press, marketing and communications teams employed by town halls up and down the UK.

Slashed

Last week it was revealed that some 3,450 are employed in a PR manner in one way or another at 405 councils across the country.

If we pretend each member of those staff earns £30,000-a-year – most of them, like managers, and the directors above them, and earning more money – then that's a collective bill of more than £106 million a year.

And all just to make sure the poor council taxpayers whose REAL services are being slashed keep on getting the "message" that all is well in the la-la land of local politics.

To put this into context, the number of people spinning for local councils is DOUBLE that of the Government of the entire country.

This is a madness that simply has to end – NOW.

Why should councils need professional spokespeople to speak for them? What's wrong with their massively overpaid "chief executives" doing it for them?

Taxpayers – council taxpayers especially – are not stupid.

They don't need "a line" thrown at them about their library's opening hours being cut.

They don't need some PR guff about how every-two-weeks bin collections are making the world a better place.

Because they are the ones who can smell their crammed bins in the garden to know that actually, it doesn't.

It's time to stop treating people like fools, get rid of the PRs, and start telling them the truth.

Wouldn't that be novel?

WHAT'S ANNOYING HIM

Will Google kill Twitter?

GOOGLE is said to be sizing up the next technology sale of the century.

The search engine giant is interested in gobbling up the current darling of our mobile screens, Twitter.

They're prepared to fork out a mere £22.5 billion to take the famous blue bird rather ironically under its own wing.

But if it happens, tweeters should start worrying right now.

If you're not a user of the service this will probably read like pure gobbledegook.

Reckless

But regular tweeters will tell you that the joy of Twitter is that it's an instant update on pretty much everything that's going on in real time.

Admittedly, there are times when opening up Twitter is akin to opening a triple glazed window next to Birmingham's Spaghetti Junction.

It's mad, noisy and busy – and full of reckless twats who own Audis, no doubt – but once you get your eye in, it's a great window onto the world.

The problem with Twitter, though, is that for all its popularity it doesn't make enough money.

And Google reckons it has a way of changing that. Which of course it would have – by using its tried and tested technique of flogging adsverts on the back of it.

Long-term Gmail users will be well aware of the company's past attempts at trying to turn people away from Facebook and the like.

They'll remember signing up for Buzz – and later being automatically signed up for Google+ without even being asked first – before quickly forgetting both of them.

That's because no matter how fantastic Google is at search, maps and all the rest, when it comes to social media it is absolutely SHITE.

DID you, like me, seek psychological help after seeing that scary photo of bingo-winged Madonna, 56, launching a surprise stage snog on (someone I've never heard of) Drake, 28?

She threw the tongue in after coming at the poor rap

Absolutely hideous.

BGT bites back over talking dog outrage

TELLY show Britain's Got Talent has defended a talking dog act after it sparked a storm of protest.

Broadcasting watchdog Ofcom has received 30 complaints, while ITV had another 35 about Miss Wendy, a dog which appears to talk.

The RSPCA said it would be contacting the ITV show to see what methods French ventriloquist Marc Matala had used on the animal.

But a spokeswoman for the talent show said: "During the audition process we consulted the RSPCA's guidelines for the welfare of performing animals and spoke to Marc in detail about his act."

"We are comfortable that Marc's act complies with the guidelines laid out by the RSPCA."

The dog appears to talk thanks to a muzzle-like device, which is fitted before she appears on stage.

Matala said: "Wendy loves performing and I would never put her in a situation that would cause her distress."

Sofia's knocker staring shocker

BUSTY actress Sofia Vergara has stated the obvious by admitting that EVERYONE stares at her enormous boobies.

The top-heavy star of Sky 1's Modern Family also reckons her bouncy 32F assets mean she struggles to get "serious" cheap roles.

The Colombian minx, 42, said: "When I was a teenager, I was a skinny with big boobs.

"Everybody stares at you and, of course, every man is after you."

"Later I realised having a good figure was an advantage on TV for getting attention."

"But it also means you can't do other normal kinds of roles, so I try to find roles which will let me capitalise on my looks and personality."

"I've never let myself worry about it. I never thought of myself as a serious actress!"

GP 'PUT HIS PENIS IN PATIENT'S HAND'

Court told he claimed it was medical test

A FAMILY doctor slapped his PENIS into the hands of three women patients at his surgery, a court heard yesterday.

Dr Habeeb Lataief asked the women to turn away, and try to identify a variety of items by touch with their hands behind their backs, Taunton Crown Court was told.

Prosecutor William Hunter said the married GP, now 48, was carrying out "sensitivity tests" on the patients who stood with their backs to him.

Mr Hunter said the doctor put a number of objects in their hands, including a pen, a key, his finger—and his WILLY.

He said two of the women did not report the matter to the police for some time—but the last victim did so within an hour of leaving the Hendford Medical Centre surgery in Yeovil, Somerset. Mr Hunter told the jury that in the third incident, a 37-year-old woman went to see him in December 2011 with a stiff neck and headache which had lasted nearly a week.

She removed a tight jumper and sat in her car when he took her blood pressure.

Lataief, of Yeovil, Somerset, did a sensitivity test to check the feelings in both her hands.

Mr Hunter said: "She was stood up. He was close behind her. She had her hands behind her back."

He put a pen in her hand. He then put a small key in her hand. He put his finger in her hand. She was able to easily recognise each item.

Then he put his penis in her hand. He did this more than once. She knew it was a penis. She was shocked. As she turned around, the defendant was bent over zipping up his trousers.

"She is a mature woman with two children. She knows the difference in feel between a penis and a finger. She left the surgery upset and shocked," Mr Hunter said as he called a friend and within 45 minutes of the start of the appointment with the GP, she rang the police. Lataief was arrested the next day.

Lazy

He told police he "should not have been lazy and should have conducted the test from the front from the beginning".

A second patient contacted police claiming Lataief had done the same to her in 2008.

Mr Hunter said the same test was carried out using a pen and his finger.

"She then heard a zip and moments later felt his penis in her hand. Again, she had no difficulty knowing it was a penis. She says she started to cry when she left the surgery."

She complained to family and friends at the time, but not to the police as she didn't think she would be believed.

Lataief was arrested again in January 2012 but said he could not remember the exam from February 2008.

The GP was charged and appeared in court.

A third woman then came forward claiming Lataief had assaulted her in 2011 when she had pins and needles.

Mr Hunter told the jury: "He asked her 'What's this?' and he placed his penis into her hand. She knew immediately what it was."

Mr Hunter added: "The victims are independently of each other either telling the truth or telling lies."

"They have no reason to lie. The defendant is lying."

Lataief denies three charges of sexual assault between 2008 and 2011. The trial continues.

A&E DOCTOR 'GRABBED NURSE'S BREAST'

He asked to see her nipple, jury hears

A CONSULTANT is accused of sexually assaulting two nurses by grabbing their BOOBS and touching their GENITALS.

A&E doc Ram Manohar, 38, is alleged to have inappropriately touched the pair in 2013, while working at Wirral's Arrowe Park Hospital.

Liverpool Crown Court heard how two nurses made separate allegations against Manohar. David McLachlan, prosecuting, said that Nurse A knew Manohar (left) and, while in his room on December 23, 2013, asked for help to learn about matters including chest X-rays.

Mr McLachlan said: "Without any warning, Manohar put his hand down her dress and into her bra."

She said he moved his hand around, but she had not asked for a demonstration.

She claimed he squeezed her left breast and asked to see her nipple, but she refused. The conversation moved on to the femoral pulse.

Mr McLachlan said that without any word of warning, he "put his hand up her dress and down her tights" before touching her inappropriately.

Nurse A alleged he told her "this teaching is only for you" before she left the room "feeling disgusted with herself". She later told friends she felt "violated" before calling police. Manohar told officers that on the day in question, she had unzipped her top and followed him around "like a puppy".

He denied touching her inappropriately and said his door was open.

Nurse B said she went to A&E with pins and needles on July 10, 2013, and, during an examination, touched her genital area. However, she said she thought he had been professional and thanked him before he gave her a hug.

She said she saw him next about a "very bad headache" on October 31 and he treated her in a dark room, where he again touched her genital area.

Nurse Bagaini thought that he had acted professionally and even took him a thank-you card.

She said he invited her for a coffee and when they went into his office, he kissed her and suddenly put his hand into her knickers.

She stopped him right away and reported him to the police.

Manohar admitted he kissed her, but said he didn't think he'd put his hand into her knickers.

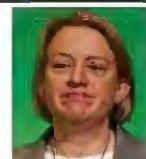

He said: "I think she caught my hand and put it on top of her trousers or something."

Manohar, of Barnston, Wirral, denies four counts of sexual assault.

The trial continues.

++ELECTION SPECIAL++ ELECTION SPECIAL++

Greens go for 'peaceful' plan

THE Green Party launched its General Election manifesto with a call for a "peaceful political revolution" to end austerity and tackle climate change.

It pledged to stop the "creeping privatisation of the NHS" and increase the minimum wage to £10 an hour.

Leader Natalie Bennett (above) and Caroline Lucas, the party's only ever MP, unveiled an insulation programme to help the two million children growing up in cold homes.

Introducing the manifesto in east London, Ms Bennett said it represented a "genuine alternative" to "business as usual" politics".

She said she wanted to "take back" the NHS and the railways from the private sector.

Lib Dems in power play

PEOPLE will be able to switch energy suppliers within 24 hours under new plans set out by the Liberal Democrats.

The party wants to "give power back" to consumers by making it quicker for households to change supplier, saying it could save people up to £200 a year.

It also wants to encourage collective switching and to guarantee smart meters for those on prepayment plans.

Labour says it will cap energy bills for 20 months from this summer until 2017 and the Tories say they will ensure regulated rail fares rise by no more than inflation until 2020.

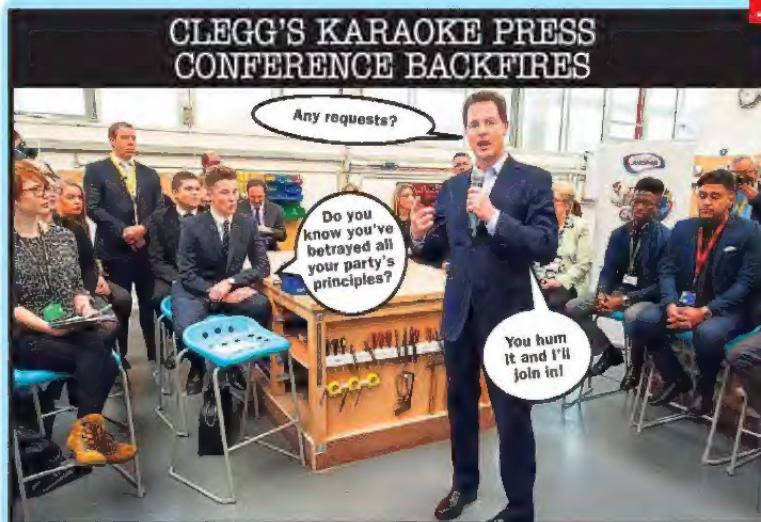

Dave's 'good life' pledge

DAVID Cameron said his aim is to guarantee a "good life" for British workers and families as he launched the Conservatives' election manifesto.

The PM said he wanted "to finish the job" of rebuilding Britain on behalf of "working people".

He pledged to keep minimum wage workers out of tax, double free childcare to 30 hours a week and boost "right to buy" home ownership.

At the Swindon launch Mr Cameron said his goal over the next five years was to "turn the good news on our economy into a good life for you and your family".

Proclaimers hit out at pop meganonce

SPECCY Scots duo The Proclaimers have stunned fans by writing a song about evil meganonce Jimmy Savile.

The tune, called Then Again, charts the demise of 1970s entertainers.

And the track, on new album Let's Hear It For The Dogs, name checks late predatory paedophile Savile, who is thought to have abused more than 1,000 victims.

The lyrics say: "Now maybe we were on Top of the Pops, some of the hosts have got the chop, I'm sleeping soundly in my bed cos Jimmy Savile's still dead."

Leeds-born Savile died in 2011 aged 84.

The Proclaimers are twin brothers Craig and Charlie Reid, famed for their smash-hit 1988 single I'm Gonna Be (500 Miles).

No-change meters rip-off motorists

COUNCILS are trousering thousands in change by forcing drivers to overpay for parking because their meters do not accept five or 10 pence coins brought in three years ago.

Town halls have failed to re-calibrate some of the 100,000 ticket machines in the UK — making it impossible for drivers to pay the exact cost of parking.

In Manchester, where 240 machines are still to be upgraded, motorists without old-style coins must use £1 and two 20p pieces for a typical £1.25 hour's parking — handing the council a 15p profit.

The council also charges £1.85 for an hour and a half and £3.10 for two hours and 30 minutes, meaning that drivers without the right coins must overpay for them too.

Nationwide there are 100,000 parking meters yet several councils are still yet to upgrade them to accept the three-year-old 5p and 10p coins.

Experts fear the problem could become even worse when the new 12-sided pound coin is released in 2017.

"You took complete advantage of him and the situation."

"You allowed him to get drunk and used alcohol to facilitate your offending."

"You lit his cigarette for him and you encouraged him to lie

A HIV-positive pub landlord sexually assaulted a man who passed out after closing time.

John Coyne orally raped his sleeping victim several times during a "prolonged attack".

CHARLIE Z

BLONDE Charlie, 29, is another 32DD who is often asked to HUMILIATE her online punters.

She told us: "I've got one regular client who loves me to take the Mickey out of his email willya! It's quite a common fetish, called 'Small Penis Humiliation'."

"He'll get an erection and then ask me to compare it to the size of a vibrator – which he says belongs to his ex-girlfriend."

"I always feel mean doing it, but if that's what turns him on, who am I to argue?"

"I've also got a bit of a reputation as an iPhone killer! I'll get the guys to climax on their screens, as I open my mouth and stick my tongue out at the crucial moment."

"I love watching their expression change when they realise what they've done."

"I'll tell them, 'Now be a good boy and get a tissue to wipe my face'. They love it!"

ECCLESTONE 'SACKED' FROM DR WHO FOR BEING TOO NORTHERN

FORMER Doctor Who actor Christopher Eccleston fell out with BBC bosses... because he was too NORTHERN!

The 51-year-old actor played the famous Time Lord for just 13 episodes in 2005.

Christopher, who grew up in Salford, was a hit with viewers – but quit after “disagreements” with producer Russell T Davies.

And in an interview with Radio Times, he suggests the BBC weren’t happy with his northern accent.

He said: “I wanted to move Dr Who away from RP (Received Pronunciation) for the first time.”

“We shouldn’t make a correlation between intellect and accent though that still needs addressing.”

“I have no ill-feeling towards the character or the series. I just didn’t agree with the way things were being run.”

Christopher, who is currently appearing on US drama The Leftovers, also criticised the rise of privately educated Hollywood stars. He continued: “I still feel quite insecure like a lot of my working class contemporaries.”

“I had a sense acting wasn’t for me because I’m not educated. I was a skinny, awkward-looking bigger with an accent I still am.”

You can’t blame Eddie Redmayne or Benedict Cumberbatch for taking their opportunities, but it will lead to a milky anodyne culture.”

Hitman & Her disco inferno

THE nightclub made famous by 1980s TV show The Hitman and Her has been gutted in a suspected arson attack.

Mr Smiths in Warrington was the setting for the late-night programme which ran from 1988 to 1992 and was hosted by pop producer Pete Waterman, now 68, and presenter Michaela Strachan, 49.

It closed its doors in 2010 and the building was earmarked for demolition last summer.

More than 50 firefighters were at the blaze which was spotted at 2am yesterday.

A 43-year-old local man was yesterday arrested in connection with the fire.

SHE'S BRITAIN'S ONLY TOPLESS COLUMNIST

I WAS shocked by the recent diamond heist in London's jewellery quarter.

A gang raided safety deposit boxes in Hatton Garden over the Easter weekend, making off with £200million worth of cash and diamonds.

According to reports, the criminals are very professional and it may even be Britain's biggest EVER heist.

I know it sounds a bit bad... but I find the whole thing really exciting!

Isn't there something thrilling about this sort of crime? Come on, admit it.

It will no doubt go down in history, just like the Great Train Robbery.

In cases like this, it's hard to sympathise with the victim. Many of them will be super-rich and will probably be covered by insurance.

And you can't help but admire the criminals! They were so clever.

It got me thinking... there should be some sort of experience day where players can 'rob' a bank with their friends.

It would all be pretend, of course. But it would be fantastic fun!

THERE'S been a controversy about a Britain's Got Talent contestant.

Apparently, French ventriloquist Marc Matal has fitted his dog Wendy with a 'talking' mask.

His comedy act creates the illusion that Wendy is singing - and he got 'four Yeses' and a glowing reaction from Simon Cowell.

But the PETA animal rights brigade is kicking up a fuss, claiming the dog was 'obviously terrified'.

What a load of BOLLOCKS!

I watched that programme, and the dog seemed perfectly happy.

But it's not just people on Twitter - a spokesperson for the RSPCA has said that they will be investigating.

It's a bit funny considering that the RSPCA actually encourage dog owners to use muzzles in some cases - so how could they complain?

Obviously, if the dog is in pain then we shouldn't encourage it. But if it's just an ordinary muzzle, then what's the problem?

These groups need to focus on real problems of animal abuse, like experimentation and torture.

There are small animals being skinned and blinded right now, which is appalling.

But this is just a bit of harmless entertainment.

Marc Matal has been doing this act for many years and has worked with Wendy for five years.

The conditions of circus animals are MUCH worse, but people are only paying attention to this because the cameras are rolling.

Hopefully, it will blow over in a few days.

MOTORMOUTH Katie Hopkins has installed a panic button at home because she's terrified of being murdered.

The former Apprentice contestant said that her house "is rigged up to the local police station" because of all the death threats she receives.

Unfortunately, I'm not surprised.

This woman does NOT realise what she's doing. Recently, she tweeted: "Dementia sufferers should not be having kids."

First off, that is completely out of order. Dementia patients are as entitled to NHS treatment as anyone else.

But more importantly she is offending a LOT of people who have had family members suffer from the disease.

What if she offends the wrong person? What if an angry young person reads that and decides to get revenge?

Turkey's left me stuffed!

I'VE just returned from the BEST holiday ever - and I feel so much better!

You really do feel so refreshed after you've had a proper break, don't you?

I stayed at the luxurious Mardan Palace in Antalya, Turkey. I simply can't describe how beautiful the building is. The staff top-up your mini-bar every day with the best quality spirits, and there was the most beautiful food.

But the problem is I've been eating so much my boobs are HUGER!

I also made a new friend - a lovely Muslim lady who really opened my eyes to her culture and religion.

She wears a burka but it's her choice and not her husband's.

She can't get stared at by men or hassled in the street.

People just leave her alone, and she prefers that.

Sizzling

And there's a LOT of perverts in Turkey believe me!

If I walked around in a burka, I wouldn't get half the attention I usually get.

I have to say that it doesn't always feel good getting compliments in the street.

Actually, life would be a lot better without it sometimes.

I went sunbathing on the beach last week - and most of the locals thought it was their lucky day. Ha ha!

I don't normally sunbathe but it was a lovely day so I thought 'Why not?'

And I even made sure I took a sizzling selfie for all you horny readers.

THE highlight of my holiday was definitely having a massage at a Turkish bath. Honestly, words can't possibly describe how good it felt.

Normally when I go for a massage, I ask for a male masseur because it's much better.

But this time a young woman did it. She had magic hands - and even WALKED up and down my back!

It was incredible and I felt a hundred times better.

Now I'm back home and feeling so good that I can't wait to get back to work!

Because it was a proper massage, I had to strip down to just a skimpy thong. And I couldn't resist taking a snap for my fans... enjoy!

I WAS so happy to find out that EastEnders star Ben Hardy has landed a major role in Hollywood alongside Jennifer Lawrence.

The 24-year-old, who played Peter Beale in the BBC soap, will join the cast of X-Men: Apocalypse.

It's going to be a BIG blockbuster, with Jennifer starring alongside actors including Michael Fassbender.

And you can bet your life Michelle Keegan and Georgia May Foote are GUTTED!

They have both quite popular roles on soaps to focus on 'making it big' in the USA.

And so far they've got nowhere!

It's a hard business and they may live to regret it. But I'm delighted for Ben and congratulate him on all his success.

It actually got me thinking about British TV actors that try to 'do' Hollywood.

I was watching the brilliant drama Revenge on Sky Atlantic recently and heard a very familiar, croaky voice...

It was only my bloody ex-fiancé Michael Greco!

He used to be on EastEnders and then he moved to Los Angeles, and still lives there.

It's a funny old world, isn't it?

Basinger's 'party girl' in rehab

FILM star Kim Basinger's daughter Ireland has checked herself into rehab.

The US model, 19, told her fans that she was being treated at the Soba Recovery Centre in Malibu.

But she denied being forced to enter the clinic by her family — her father is actor Alec Baldwin — because of hard partying.

"God grant me the serenity tonight. Intensive partying habits," she wrote on Twitter.

"Apparently I'm in rehab for intensive partying sooooo I'm just going to lay pretty low for a bit and maybe get some frozen yoghurt."

I checked myself into Soba for two weeks to just get away for a little bit. I'm not much of a party girl but I am here to deal.

With some emotional trauma and getting the intensive therapy I needed in order to recover."

The teenager's parents divorced in 2002 after acrimonious court battles.

Tax man 'lied' in bid to watch porn at work

A TAX INSPECTOR was sacked over claims he started an investigation into porn websites so he could watch X-rated movies at work.

Fred Botha, 44, told bosses at the South African Revenue Service he needed special access to the smutty sites at work so he could carry out a probe.

But he was fired after tax chiefs alleged he was lying and that he was watching the filthy movies for his own pleasure.

Botha claimed he had received an "anonymous telephone call" about a tax dodger who was advertising a pornography business on two websites.

He was sacked in 2011 but his case for unfair dismissal is still ongoing in Cape Town.

IT'S close to kick-off time for a workplace STRIP.

Because this week Brits are being urged to take part in 'Football Shirt Friday' — a winning fund-raiser for Cancer Research and the Bobby Moore Fund.

The England World Cup winner and Sunday Sport sports editor sadly died in 1993, aged just 51, having lost his battle with bowel cancer.

It is the second most common cause of cancer death in the UK. But you can salute a legend and stick two fingers up to a horrible disease by proudly wearing your chosen club's kit for work this coming Friday, April 17.

A spokesman for the charity event said: "Our only opposition is bowel cancer."

"No matter which team you support, join us on Football Shirt Friday and raise money for the

TREASURER ROBS £18,000

FROM PSYCHIC CHURCH...

They

CASH BASH: The old wooden church

PSYCHICS were left red-faced when their new treasurer turned into a fraud who nicked £18,000 from a spiritualist church.

The cash was earmarked for new toilets, as well as roof and window repairs at the century-old wooden building.

David McMenamin, 50, was appointed treasurer and secretary at the Long Eaton Spiritualist Church in Derbyshire.

Medium and church president Jane Walton said: "We trusted him and regarded him as a friend."

Idiots

"We were so shocked. You don't expect this to happen to a church."

Moers, 24, of Castle Donington, Leics, was jailed for 20 months at Nottingham Crown Court after admitting fraud between March 2012 and June 2014.

Spiritualists believe they can talk to the dead and services are conducted by a medium.

The church's building repair fund had to be put on hold because the cupboard was bare.

Recorder Robert Spencer-Bernard told Moers: "You caused damage to the church and an impact on the individuals there, who were called idiots for trusting you."

Mum-in-law shot in back by armadillo killer son!

A PENSIONER has been shot in the back by her SON IN LAW in a bizarre hunting accident that has police officers baffled.

Larry McElroy, 64, was stood outside when he fired his 9mm pistol at an ARMADILLO.

The bullet killed the animal before ricochetting off it, hitting a fence and travelling through the back door of his mother in law's mobile home - then through a recliner she was sitting in and into her BACK.

According to a report, McElroy was about 100 yards away from her home at the time.

And amazingly his mother in law, 74 year old Carol Johnson, was not severely injured.

Lee County Sheriff's Office investigator Bill Smith said: "The whole situation was unusual."

"I really think if they're going to shoot no vermin and whatnot, maybe use a shotgun which has a spread pattern with a lot less range."

Another opt on to get rid of armadillos is using grub pesticide which kills the insects that armadillos often feed on.

No charges were filed in the case.

PARK W*NKER PERV TARGETS TEENAGE GIRLS

A PERV dressed in a Superman T-shirt scared two sunbathing teenagers by WANKING in front of them in a park.

The man whipped out his cock as he lay down on grass just 10ft from the teenagers in public.

Then he started rubbing himself in an up and down motion.

The girl's both 14 alerted one of their mums who was passing nearby with another daughter.

The mother said: "The girls were sunbathing in leggings and tops when my daughter's friend said to my daughter 'That man's got his penis out'."

"At first they thought it was quite funny. But then he started rubbing himself and that's when they got scared."

She revealed that it was obvious the man described as being skinny Asian and in his late 20s or early 30s wanted the girls to see what he was doing in East Grinstead, West Sussex.

Covered

She added: "There were other people in the park but the girls said when someone else walked past he covered himself up."

"He wanted them to see him pleasuring himself. He was so close they could hear his zip being undone."

Police last night released a description of the man as being 5ft 7 tall and wearing grey jogging bottoms and a black jacket or hoodie.

The right way to get up the wrong 'un

By NEIL GOODWIN
neilsg@zimbio.com

FELLAS rejoice - because Brit women have been issued with a fool-proof guide to BUM LOVE!

The astonishing 'not safe for work' feature has shocked readers after appearing in best selling mums mag Closer.

And it explicitly describes the ins and outs of doing it up the wrong way.

Expert Dr. Ona Day says, "If you and your partner are keen to try what can be an extremely enjoyable and pleasurable sex move, everything you need to know is right here."

The article explains "The trick is to take it slow...no over eager thrusting."

"You can also prepare yourself with some anal beads. Introduce anal play into your sex life with a string of anal beads and starting with the smallest one insert them into your butt passage. This gets you used to the feeling and gets all those nerve endings standing at attention."

Lubricant

"Also important is finding a good lubricant. Anal tube is thicker and gives more cushioning than standard tube for comfortable penetration."

Finding the right position is also important. Fiona adds: "You can make anal more comfortable by picking your positions wisely. If you're trying anal for the first time then it's probably wiser for you to be on top. This enables you to control the movement more easily, meaning you can slow down if its becoming a bit of a thrill."

I'd love to have a foursome with two girls and a guy!

By NEIL GOODWIN neil@neilgoodwin.co.uk

THE Man of Steel has nothing on comic book fan Jamie Jenkins – she dreams of dressing-up as Supergirl before indulging in a slippery FOURSOME!

The brunette minx definitely WON'T kill your libido like a fistful of Kryptonite.

And luckily you don't need X-ray vision to see the 24-year-old naked, as she's more than happy to strip-off anyway!

The all-natural 32C beauty, from posh Cobham, Surrey, told us, "I might look sweet and innocent but I'm a real minx in the bedroom."

Stamina

"I'd love to dress up as Supergirl and dominate a fella. I know it's a bit weird but I think that would be a real turn on."

"I'd definitely rather be the one in charge rather than the submissive one."

"And I'd also love to have a foursome ideally it'd be with another two girls and just one guy! Me and the girls would have a bit of a fool around and the guy would have to satisfy all of us."

"He'd need to have plenty of stamina. And I don't think I'd like a threesome with just two guys, though. It would have to be a foursome, so no-one gets left out."

Lips

"I don't mind the idea of two guys and another girl, but I wouldn't like to be the only girl there. The more boobs the merrier I reckon."

Unsurprisingly, Jamie has already had a girl-on-girl experience.

She laughs. "Yes, I've kissed a girl in a club and had a bit of a fumble but nothing more than that. It always gets the guys going!"

"I like kissing girls, they have lovely, soft lips. I'm up for sleeping with a girl. It's just the opportunity has never come my way... yet!"

Missus wants to whip me into better shape

Dear Bailey,

I'VE been married for 14 years and me and the wife have always had a rich and varied sex life.

But just recently she's got me worried with her strange demands in the sack.

She's always been a bit of a "goer" and more than willing to try new sexual things. And over the years we've had some very kinky sessions.

We once spent two days and nights in bed on a weekend away in Margate, and we lost count of the number of times we shagged on our mini-break.

We did it in every position imaginable - missionary on top, luggy style reverse cowgirl, wheelbarrow and even running!

We even got out the sex toys and packed for an emergency.

She was well up for it as I plunged dildo after dildo in increasing sizes into her.

It was on this trip that we had anal sex for the first time - which was something of an eye opener for both of us.

But sadly that was then and I've calmed down a lot now.

But she still behaves like a sex-mad nympho and now she wants me to get into S&M stuff using whips, handcuffs and gags.

After she went to see that Fifty Shades of Grey film at the cinema with one of her mates.

We tried it one Saturday night as she fastened my hands and feet to the bed and then set about whipping my hairy arse with a bendy garden cane.

I told her I didn't like it but she just said, "Tough!" and insisted on doing it every night for the next bloody week.

My arse is killing me and I am now living in fear of the wife. What can I do?

ED, Merseyside

Bailey says...

TELL her how much you used to enjoy sex before the spankings.

Dear Bailey,

I'M a lonely 25 year old woman with no or very little sexual experience with the opposite sex.

What am I supposed to do if I get off with a man and he pulls his thingy out?

GR, Suffolk

Bailey says...

SUCK IT UNTIL IT SPLITS AT YOU. Enjoy!

Letter of the day

Office sex with my boss is just the job

Dear Bailey,

I AM having an affair with my boss at work.

He's 33 and I'm 42, blonde with a good bod and 34DD tits.

The sex is amazing, especially when he takes me over his desk.

He likes me to wear a tight skirt, with stockings underneath and he then spanks and fks me.

I always come and can't wait to suck him off so he can do me again.

I can't get enough and regularly let him take me up the arse.

I want to leave my husband, because our kids are now 18 and 21, and move in with my lover.

But he says he doesn't want to leave his wife.

What should I do?

LA, Leeds

Dear Bailey,

I'M a 19-year-old female student who is currently learning to drive.

My instructor was very flirty with me from my first lesson.

When I told him I was skint as old arseholes he said it wasn't a problem, and that I could pay him "in other ways".

This means I now suck him off and let him shag me after the lesson.

He's 44, but he's physically very fit and goes to the gym all the time - so he has a nice toned body and, best of all, he has a massive cock which is about eight inches.

I enjoy sucking his dick and he always licks me out before doing me.

But I'm starting to worry that he's not teaching me to drive that well.

I've had around 50 lessons so far and failed my test three times.

But he says I'm a good driver and I just need to be patient.

What should I do?

GF, Warrington

Bailey says...

SCREW the examiner next time! Or find another instructor who won't take the piss.

Dear Bailey,

THE other week I found a film clip on the internet which I'm pretty sure is of my girlfriend and two blokes - having sex.

Imagine my shock when I saw her sucking on a large cock while she was being boned from behind.

Then I watched in amazement as she sucked both their cocks at the same time.

She then lay on the bed while they wanked all over her tits before screaming her head off as she had one cock up her arse and one in her pussy.

This shocked me more than anything else because she's always been so reductive to experiment sexually like that with me.

Even though I realise she may have made this film before we ever met, I can't get it out of my head and refuse to delete it off my home computer, as I still like to watch it and have a tug when I'm alone.

Is this normal behaviour?

PV, Manchester

Bailey says...

MAKE your own video together.

Dear Bailey,

I'M a 24 year old blonde babe who loves to wear high heels and tight skirts.

I'm due to get married in July to a really nice fella. But the problem is I turn into a slut when I'm pissed.

At last year's office Christmas party I got tipsy and ate a lick of the boss's meat stick.

The other day I went to the pub with a few of my mates to talk about the wedding and a fit hunky fella caught my eye.

I followed him out into the men's toilets and told him that I wanted his known in my pub and played with his bellend as he massaged my ae.

But after he shot his load down my throat he suggested he text a couple of his mates who were back out in the pub if I fancied grabbing them too.

Well I told him I was well up for it and he got his pals in for a spunk fest.

Now I feel guilty as my fiance will find out and call off the wedding. Help!

And the latest request comes from Welsh accountant Tony Atkins, who reckons Monica, 28, has the best natural BOOBS in Britain!

The 40-year-old said: "I always prefer models with real assets – not big fake boobs.

"And Monica's perfect 32C charms always brighten up my day!"

LEONORA LOVE

GLAMOUR model Leonora Love, from Maidstone, Kent, is the choice of construction worker Lee Dean.

The 27 year-old from Scarborough, North Yorks e mailed last week to request his favourite Midweek Sport babe.

He wrote: "Ever since she started modelling, I've been a big fan of Leonora.

"She's got that really posh look – but you can tell she's proper naughty!

"Would you mind printing a topless snap for me?"

"I'd love to see her in all her glory again!"

WHEN IT COMES TO SEX, TEN IS THE MAGIC NUMBER

Victoria Dunn says...

NINE sexual partners? Sounds about right to me. If you count long-term relationships, flings, the odd one-night stand, it makes sense!

I asked my fella for his 'number' when we first started dating. He said eight, which was the same as me. What a relief!

But generally speaking, I don't think it matters that month.

Lots of guys probably think they're top shaggers because they shag a different girl every week.

But it doesn't necessarily mean they can deliver the goods—if you know what I mean!

IT'S official — British blokes aren't getting enough action!

A shock new poll reveals that almost HALF of men have slept with FIVE people or less.

F*cking hell, some people do more than that in a week in Magaluf!

And the average guy sleeps with just NINE people in his lifetime, according to popular blokes' mag FHM.

More than 7,000 fellas responded to their Am I Normal? survey, which asked readers all about their sex lives.

And their findings follow up research which suggests there's a Rule of 10 when it comes to sexual partners.

This means that if someone has slept with too few people, they risk being seen as inexperienced.

Satisfaction

But if they've had too many partners they come across as "morally bankrupt". So 10 is apparently the perfect number when looking for a long-term partner.

The survey also found that the majority of blokes have cheated on their girlfriend — and claimed the primary reason is "lack of sexual satisfaction".

And 40 percent of men admit to WANKING every day — with the majority doing it at least 12 TIMES a month or every two and a half days.

We asked our Midweek Sport stunners Victoria Dunn, Kimberley Carter and Lisa Walker what they made of these sensational results.

• FHM is available in newsagents now.

Kimberley Carter says...

I'M really surprised that so many guys have slept with five women or less.

You'd think with all their confidence most blokes have shagged half of Britain!

But to be honest, I don't think it matters that much.

I'm more impressed by men with standards — not desperate boys that 'keep score'.

Lisa Walker says...

HONESTLY, I expected you men to do better!

In my experience, it's always better if the guy is more sexually experienced in the bedroom.

If the girl has had more sexual partners, it can get a bit awkward. Trust me.

That happened with my ex-boyfriend. He was jealous because I'd slept with lots of guys when I went travelling a few years ago.

Eventually he ended up cheating on me with TWO girls, because he wanted to "even the score". Pathetic.

In case you're wondering, yes I dumped him!

with SIMON DEAN

ITV4 10.30pm Born to Raise Hell

Film4 1.45am Transamerica

Felicity Huffman shows boobs and minge in the bath at one hour 34 minutes. Mmm, suds. Make sure you rinse your end before bed, mind.

Movie Mix 1.25am American Crude

Not even out of the opening credits and Miss Piggy is giving an all too-brief glimpse of her sweet little titton as she gets out of the bath. Dripping. Well, mine was.

OUR SPORTS BETTING GURU WILL PUT YOU RIGHT ON TO A WINNER!

Barca Ed for a fall

THE European Champions League party starts again tonight.

And while Premier League teams are as welcome as a French kiss at a family wedding, that doesn't mean we can't have a little betting fun.

The wealthy Parisianos take on the even wealthier Spaniards and on all known form the football ought to offer rich pickings.

Luis Enrique, the Barcelona coach really rates PSG.

He is on record as saying: "They are seriously one of the contenders to win the competition. They are that good."

When they met at Camp Nou in December, Barcelona ran out 3 winners.

So that makes it easy to be generous about your opponents.

Most, Neymar and Suarez banged the net that day but Zlatan Ibrahimovic opened the scoring for the visitors.

Enrique makes no secret of the fact he would love to see his natural PSG successor Edins in Cavani line up in red and blue stripes and at 5/2 to score at any time in the game.

PSG v BARCELONA: WED, 7.45, SKYSP1 given home advantage, he makes plenty of appeal.

Speaking of which, 100/30 about a home team at this latter stage of the Champions League?

You don't get this far in this competition playing like Port Vale.

That is simply way too big in a three-horse race.

no matter how highly the opposition are revered.

Actually, Barca aren't bad at 5/6 with the draw at 5/2 but the outsider of three gets the vote this time.

Neither side bothers much with defence and the under or over 2.5 goals is 5/6 each of two.

This isn't going to finish goalless so the over gets the vote at nearly levels. But if we want to really stick our brass neck out, Paris St Germain to be winning at half time and full time is an incredible 6/1.

If you have to accept the advice PSG will win this game and that isn't a certainty.

But if you swallow that, bear in mind the French lads tend to come off the blocks sprinting and have scored in the first half in nearly all their League games this season.

If you don't believe us and insist on taking the easy option with Barcelona the bet that smacks you in the eye is Luis Suarez to score first at 11/2.

Old Hanna, the Cannibal

has taken a while to settle into life outside Merseyside.

But he has managed it and increasingly looks comfortable in the same frontline as Lionel Messi.

That's quite an accolade but like that trooper in the Clarol adverts says, he's worth it.

The other thing to consider about these games is they tend to get a bit fizzy and you can have 7/2 about there being a sending off.

Ok, the French lads weren't too much on the front foot in the Second World War but few of the modern team are actually French.

The Catalans can cause a fight in an empty room, that's what makes them so lovable.

So the prospect of one of the deaf buggers seeing red at three and a bit to one makes us reach for the beer fridge.

BETS: PSG half-time/full time (6/1); Cavani to score at any time (5/2); sending off (7/2).

HOME BOYS TO STING HORNETS

NOTTM FOREST v WATFORD WEDNESDAY, 7.45PM

IT'S hard to love Huddersfield. In my experience.

Personally, I have my reasons. Architecturally, it is actually quite nice. Semi Edwardian, semi Victorian. Either way, it is not unpretty to look at.

Some of the people can be a bit joyless though. But not as joyless as the 26,363 fans who filled out of the City Ground last weekend, presumably to make their own tea cos the miasma had gone shopping.

Because Huddersfield Town put them to the sword.

Only 1-0, but a Sean Scannell goal effectively put the Terriers safe from relegation and at the same time condemned Forest to another season of what-might-been.

It's hard to get Forest. Those of us who inhabited an era of when Brian Clough really could make a silk purse out of a sow's ear, despair.

The fella took a Sunday League pub side, yeah honestly, to win two European Cups in a row.

Yeah, honestly. You could say that today's Forest side actually possess more talent.

Are they gonna win tonight? Probably.

The form book says Watford are better all day and they have a serious chance at making automatic qualification for the top flight on the numbers.

They are one goal difference point behind Norwich City and only one actual point behind leaders Bournemouth but they looked a tired side in the laboured 2-0 win over the relegation-threatened and frankly hopeless Millwall. Now, that mob are going down.

Forest are smarting. Their huge, loyal fan base expect expect Better Things as The Kinks once said.

I suspect they might get them tonight. BETS: Forest to win at 9/4.

ROTHERHAM CAN ROGER EM

FULHAM v ROTHERHAM WEDNESDAY, 7.45PM

CLACHACUDIN versus Terrier United. Be honest, which one of us with a semblance of a sense of humour doesn't rate that the game of the day.

Thank you, Press And Journal Highland League.

Unfortunately, with all the romance of a Pam Ayres poem ... Fulham versus Rotherham will generate more interest.

And I need to declare an interest.

As a Workington fan/occasional player I once had stones thrown at me – bloody big ones too, they hurt – by Rotherham fans as the 3-0 defeat for a non-league side to a team high in the second division unfolded in the 1978 FA Cup first round.

Thank you Tony Gledhill/Mits for getting sent off in the first half. You are. But bygones aside, you have to fancy Rotherham here. When these sides last clashed it was a proper biter.

Three times the Millers led, three times Fulham pegged them back. Dan Burn finally bagged the goal that levelled matters 3-3 with the referee staring patiently at his watch.

Frankly, both sides have the staying power of a belde's nightie at the back. They are 20th and 21st in an admittedly wonderful Championship table.

Stick your Premiership where the sun don't shine. This is a way more entertaining division.

If you can get to watch it on however a format I am willing to guarantee it will be more fun than the Champions League tonight.

BETS: Rotherham to win at 11/4.

PORTO v BAYERN MUNICH: WED, 7.45PM, SKYSP1

IT might look like a side dish with Barcelona on the main menu but this could really be the tastier dish.

Munich have long since put to bed the theory that German football teams are pragmatic, functional, but eventually do get the job done.

They play with a flair and a passion that does them credit and the Portugeezers are not shy, either.

They currently lie second in their national league table, just three points behind Benfica.

Ricardo Quaresma either assisted or scored in four of the five goals that saw Esteril wallop last Tuesday by a majestic 5-0.

At 11/1 for first scorer, and yes we know he's only a winger, well, you know it makes sense.

Bayern Munich are a shade of odds-on to win away at 3/4 and the stalemate is a hellish generous 13/8.

But hang on, 15/4 – the fat end of 4/1 – about a home win, is this Christmas, or what? The Gerries are good but are they really four times better than Porto? We don't think so, therefore fill your boots.

The most appealing bet given the free-scoring nature of both sides' football is 7/1 for Porto to win and for there to be at least three goals in a game.

Ooooh we do love betting. BETS: Porto win at more than 2.5 goals (7/1); Quaresma for first goal (11/1); Porto to win (15/4).

FIND THE LADY

Gosden ace can get off to flyer

THERE'Sa cracking card at Newmarket with Group races and LADY CORRESPONDENT (4.05) can hit the headlines in the prestigious Nell Gwyn Stakes.

On official ratings, John Gosden's filly has loads to find.

She is rated 30th lower than David Simcock's Tarras on the figures but she is only once-raced.

That came in a course and distance maiden when James Doyle did the steering.

And steering was all it took.

She led 50 yards out looking like she had been for a stroll in the park.

Given the usual amount of improvement and Ryan Moore in the plate, she can do the business. There is no

By CHAMPION JOCKEY JOHN FRANCOME

fascinating five-runner contest at 3.30 in which a tentative vote goes to HOME OF THE BRAVE

His Kempton third last time out fell well below expectation.

Maybe he didn't just below the weather.

Previously, his Windsor second and especially his Newmarket maiden win were excellent efforts.

In the latter he sneered at a field of 18 from the big yards and went away to win by four lengths.

The second hasn't raced since but the third home Astrophysics, the fourth State Of The Union and the seventh Father Stone have all won fair races since that day.

Aidan O'Brien's THE WARRIOR can live up to his name in the 2.55 Ballydoyle are selective about the races they target this side of the pond.

And The Warrior would not have inspired confidence on two-year-old form.

But then he emerged in a Curragh maiden and put a 22-runner field to the sword.

The form book says two and a half lengths was the winning distance.

That doesn't begin to tell the story. The Warrior looked a different horse from the season before.

You are taking a gamble second guessing two-year-old form but RAVENHOE won the Brocklesby Stakes at Doncaster and history shows that form is rock solid.

His opponents in the 2.20 could be anything but he looks worth staying on the right side of caution.

Howe about a bet on Eddie?

JOSE Mourinho is 11/8 favourite at BetVictor to be named LMA Manager of the Year.

But it should be noted that in the two previous years the self-proclaimed Chosen/Happy One has managed the Blues to be Premier League Champions but has not been given the accolade from his peers.

His Chelsea side are lumping their way to the title and the effort at Loftus Road was workmanlike at best.

Having already captured the Capital One Cup, it might appear daft to look for alternatives but try I will, and two young English managers catch my eye:

If Sean Dyche keeps Burnley up with the resources he has at his disposal at Turf Moor is that not, arguably, an even greater achievement?

At 8/1 with BetVictor he is a realistic alternative and the "Ginger Mourinho" has done a remarkable job keeping the

CHERRIES BOSS TOO BIG FOR LMA GONG

Clarets competitive in the PL when many had written them off at the start of the season.

Indeed we took more bets on them finishing bottom (5/2) than getting relegated at the start of the season.

They had the audacity to take the lead against Chelsea on opening weekend before the Champion eventually blew them apart and comparisons were being drawn with the lamentable Derby County side of a number of years ago who were relegated with the fewest points in the history of the division.

Burnley travel to Goodison this weekend and are 99/5 at BetVictor to win maximum points against a spluttering Everton whose results rather than performances have improved in recent weeks.

The Toffees scored with their only shot on target against Southampton in their last home game and if the Clarets can keep Everton at bay in the opening 20 mins the nemeses might get restless.

If Dyche has done a remarkably job at Turf Moor the same must be said of Eddie Howe at Dean Court (always will be to me) and the Bournemouth manager would certainly get my vote.

Award

Ahead of last night's trip to the Madejski the Cherries topped the Championship table playing a wonderful, exciting brand of football and were 4/5 to win the title.

Howe was cut from 8s to 5s for the award after his side's 2-0 win at the Amex last Friday and that still looks the value.

Ronald Koeman has done an excellent job at St Mary's and Alan Pardew (2012) has transformed Palace's season since his return to Selhurst Park that said have either done a better job than that achieved by Howe?

It is unfathomable to give young British managers a chance through Brendan Rodgers is now a top candidate for the impending vacancy at the Etihad.

Steve McLaren is 1/3 to be the next manager of Newcastle United, area free of the tussle, and the Derby County and former England manager is past the post if the betting is to be believed.

It seems strange Howe is not quoted but if he takes the Claretines into the Promised Land that is the Premier League his will come under more intense scrutiny.

At 3/1 he must be the recommendation to be named LMA Manager of the Year.

Hakam can light up HQ opening day

IT seems almost inconceivable that today's opening Craven meeting at Newmarket will not count towards the Flat Jockeys' title but we have a cracking card at HQ including the Alex Scott Maldon which opens proceedings.

★ AKEEB CHAMPION comes down from the north for Richard Fahey and is highly regarded but HAKAM cost $450,000 as a yearling and is entitled to come on for his Lingfield polytrack debut. Trained by Charlie Hills the colt is entered in the Guineas back here next month and must go close if he is to take up that lofty engagement.

The drop back in trip from a mile is no inconvenience and he can land the opener with Paul Hanagan taking over in the saddle.

★ The once-raced FAYDAN (3.0) is a leading fancy for the Guineas and had clockwatchers purring when scoring by GI at Haydock back in July.

Trained by John Gosden he receives weight from two of his four opponents this afternoon and cannot be opposed. He is currently 4/1 second favourite for the first Classic of the season at BetVictor and he is very exciting prospect.

★ GOLDEN HORN (4.40) is another once-raced exciting colt who is taken to land the Fielden Stakes. He was something of a talking horse ahead of his Nottingham debut when he was slowly away before going up in the shadows of the post.

Frankie Dettori takes over from William Buick in a race where six of the seven runners won last time out. This looks a hot renewal and it should be noted that Golden Horn has the lowest SHB rating in the field; this looks a top class renewal of this listed nine furlongs contest but the Gosden runner (11/2 at BetVictor) gets the nod.

The colt who finished runner up to Golden Horn is taken to make it third time lucky in the 10f maiden.

★ STORM THE STARS (5.15) finished runner up to subsequent Racing Post Trophy runner up Aloft on debut and battled back once headed by Golden Horn at Colwick Park.

A son of Sea The Stars the William Haggas-trained colt is ridden by Richard Hughes this afternoon and can break his duck at the third time of asking.

NAP OF THE DAY

THE nap of the day is for both sides to score in Paris tonight in the PSG v Barcelona Champions League first leg tie.

The sides have met six times previously in the CL and on each occasion both sides have found the back of the net. I fancy Barca to take a lead back to the Nou Camp but at 4/5 with BetVictor the nap must be both sides to score.

CHAMPIONS LEAGUE:
PSG v BARCELONA
TONIGHT, 7.45, SKY SP1

BARCELONA will target Italy international Matteo Darmian this summer.

The Catalan giants face a trip to Paris St Germain tonight for a Champions League quarter-final first leg.

They are set to lose long-serving right-back Dani Alves at the end of the season and they are scouring the market for potential replacements.

The club's international sporting director Ariado Bralda flew to Italy to run the rule over Torino's Darmian.

Bralda praised the 25-year-old. He said: "Darmian looked really good to me, but there's still a lot of room for improvement there yet."

Striker Lionel Messi has pledged his allegiance to the club.

Messi has played down reports of him moving, saying he is happy with life but admits he had a tough 2013/14 season.

He said: "I feel happy. The truth is that I started the season in a different way after what happened to me last season."

"I had a tough year due to events off the field. Injury and my form. But this season I started differently and I feel good."

Thrashing

Paris St Germain need to overcome the absence of key players including striker Zlatan Ibrahimovic.

PSG are buoyant after beating Ligue 1 rivals Marseille 3-2, thrashing St Etienne 4-1 in the French Cup semi-finals, and winning the League Cup final 4-0 against Bastia on Saturday.

Even without suspended Swede Ibrahimovic, Marco Verratti and the injured David Luiz, PSG believe they are peaking.

Boss Laurent Blanc said: "Do I feel a new momentum? It's been the case for a while."

"We are gaining momentum while last year at the same time we were on the way down."

The two teams have met regularly in the Champions League, with PSG beating Barca 3-2 at home in Group F this season before losing 3-1 at Camp Nou.

Barca reached the 2013 semi-finals by eliminating PSG on away goals.

Barca's 5-2 draw at Sevilla in La Liga on Saturday, when they threw away a 2-0 lead, prompted renewed concerns about their defensive frailty.

Goalie Claudio Bravo made a handling error to let in Ever Banega's long-range strike.

Bent double

KEOWN BACKS CHRIS TO STAY...AND WIN CUP

ARSENAL hero Martin Keown has backed Christian Benteke to stay at Aston Villa—and reckons he can fire them to the FA Cup final.

He was also a Villa star defender and he believes the in-form striker can help steer them past Liverpool in the semi-final at Wembley on Sunday.

Benteke has eight goals in eight games under boss Tim Sherwood and scored the winner in Saturday's 1-0 victory at the manager's former club Spurs which lifted Villa six points clear of the relegation zone.

He had previously scored just three goals this season before Sherwood replaced Paul Lambert in February.

And Keown reckons

By CHRIS HARRAN

Benteke is fighting for his interest from other clubs.

"I can see the frustration in a player who is burning with desire to do something for his club," said Keown who made 138 appearances for Villa from 1986 to 1989.

He must feel he has won the lottery because he has a manager who generously everything to him."

It's a nice position for the club if they are finding off offers but they will face that situation if it arises.

But Fabian Delph was persuaded to stay when everyone thought he was leaving.

Villa are a big club with an ambitious manager and he is banging the drum and the players are following Bentukle would not want to run away from that."

Gabby Agbonlahor has scored three times under Sherwood and Keown says Villa's front two can lead them to the FA Cup final.

I don't think there's any doubt, they could do that. Kolo Toure would not relish playing against the two.

There would be pockets of space for Agbonlahor to run into and no defenders can match him in a fast race.

Steam

Villa can enjoy the semi-final while Liverpool are running out of steam.

"I would not want to play against Agbonlahor and Benteke, if those two are up against you they are going to test you."

Sherwood has offered encouragement to the six-year-old fan he pipped to the job earlier this year.

Charlie Fox, from Leamington Spa, applied for the job after Paul Lambert was sacked and Sherwood contacted him on his credentials, including being named captain of his team.

The Villa fan was looking for a chocolate bar as a win bonus and would have asked to have been paid for taking over with a signed football or WWF wrestling figure and sweets as well as appoint his mum and dad as assistants.

That young man will get far.

Sherwood wrote: "It is clear you would indeed be an ideal candidate for the job due to your knowledge of football and your capable backroom staff of course."

"Hopefully you're not too disappointed at missing out and I'm informed that I just managed to pip you to the post so you were very close to being offered the job."

"Our chief executive Tom Fox has informed me that the club would like your permission to keep the letter on file for reference."

"I will certainly be aiming to make you and all the other supporters happy."

"In terms of your career I want to wish Norton Lindsey every success this season. Well done on being appointed captain. I was a captain during my playing career it's a special honour."

Charlie said: "I never expected a letter from the manager but I was absolutely delighted to get one."

What he wrote was brilliant. It meant a lot to me."

STURRIDGE FACES WEMBLEY FIGHT

By PETE BAILEY

Sturridge, 25, had to pull out of the squad that saw off Newcastle 2-0 on Monday night.

But Rodgers is keen to use the England striker in Sunday's FA Cup semi-final against Aston Villa.

On Monday, Sturridge was feeling the effects of a hip injury suffered at Blackburn in the quarter final replay.

He will be assessed in the coming days but Rodgers will give him every chance to prove his fitness for Wembley.

The gaffer said: "He will hopefully be OK for the week end and I will know more in the week."

He feels reasonably fine so we are hoping by Thursday we will have an indication where he is at.

He needs a summer off. We won't see the best of him again until next season."

Rodgers didn't seem too positive when talking about the likelihood of Mario Balotelli returning to the side.

The controversial Italian was missing again on Monday night — this time through ill ness — and he's not been sighted in the Liverpool side for three games now.

Rodgers said: "Mario is still ill. He was not quite fit enough to face Newcastle. He has had on and off sickness issues."

Defender Mamadou Sakho will be out for "three to four weeks" with the hamstring injury he picked up at Blackburn.

The 25-year-old stopper is now a doubt for league matches against West Brom, Hull and QPR on top of Wembley.

Meanwhile, Sky Sports pundit Paul Merson says Liverpool would be getting one of the best deals in history if they were able to engineer a swap with Arsenal involving Raheem Sterling and Then Walcott.

Walcott has been left out in the cold at the Emirates and has yet to win back the place he lost when injured.

Sterling is up for grabs after failing to sign a new contract at Anfield.

Merson said: "If Walcott goes to Liverpool, Sterling goes to Arsenal and Liverpool get money, Liverpool have had the best deal ever."

He added: "If he goes to Arsenal, will he play? I don't think he's an Arsenal player. I don't think he gets his head up or moves the ball quickly enough."

STRUGGLE: Sturridge

BAD RUN: Freedman

Dougie's desperate for points

N FOREST v WATFORD:
TONIGHT 7.45pm

NOTTINGHAM Forest host Watford tonight with boss Dougie Freedman keen to bring an end of a run of four games without a win that has threatened to derail the progress made since his arrival.

Watford travel with automatic promotion firmly in their sights and the Hornets will believe only three points will do if they are to keep pace with both Bournemouth and Norwich.

After winning seven of his first 10 games in charge of Forest, Freedman could have been forgiven for thinking that he was starting to get the best of a squad who had performed inconsistently under Stuart Pearce.

However, four games without success, including three defeats, has told the Scot he has plenty of work ahead to put together a promotion-winning squad ahead of next season.

Freedman will rest Antonio, with Chris Burke coming in for the former Sheffield Wednesday winger.

Ben Osborn starts in favour of David Vaughan.

Watford's Vydra gets the nod ahead of Ighalo, while Marco Motta will remain on the substitutes' bench after returning from suspension last weekend.

Kit back in the sh*t

FULHAM v ROTHERHAM:
TONIGHT 7.45pm

FULHAM manager Kit Symons looked like he was steering his side to safety, but a stumper has them looking over their shoulder.

They won just one game in 12 early in 2015, before clinching a vital 2-1 win at Huddersfield on March 21.

The gap between them and the bottom three is a healthy nine points and they will know that if they beat Rotherham survival will be all but assured.

The Millers sit seven ahead of Wigan in 22nd, but could face a three-point penalty for an ineligible player.

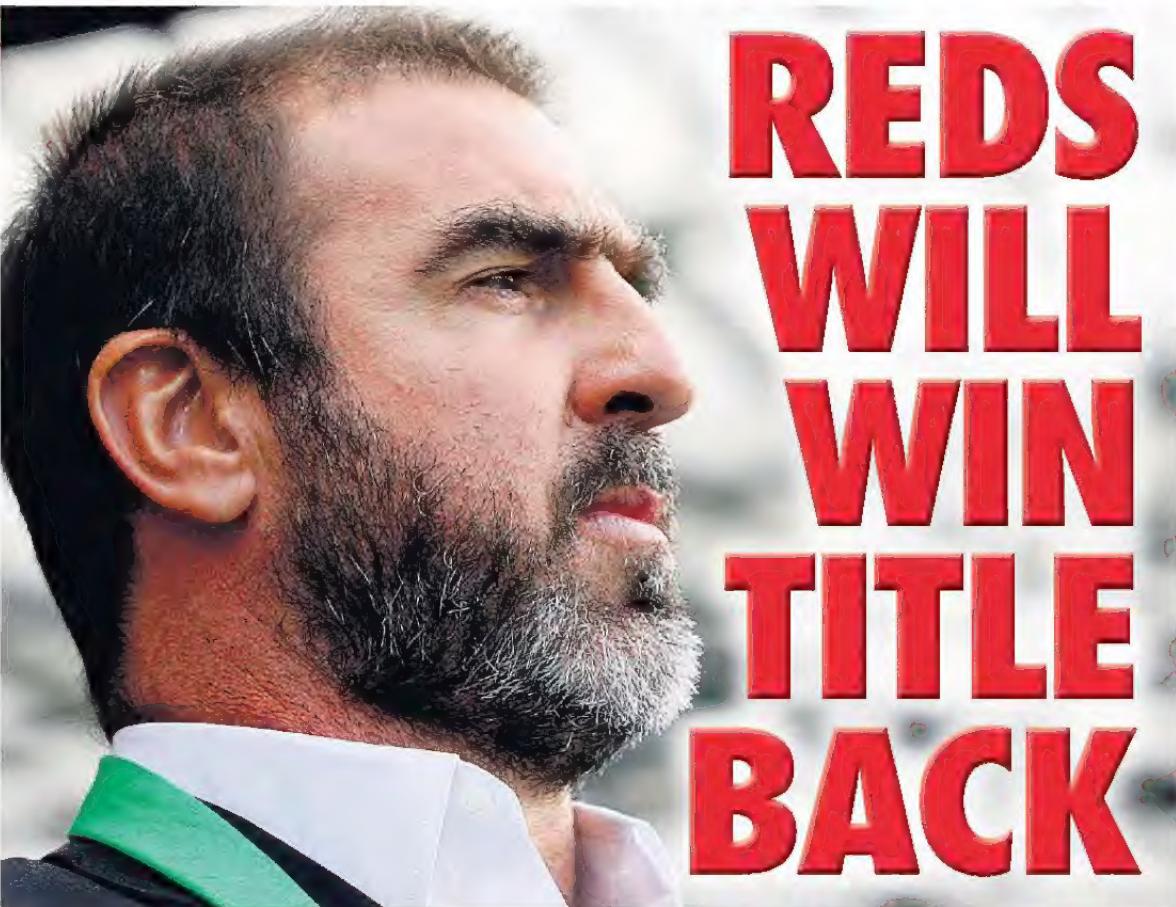

Defender Farrend Rawson played 90 minutes against Brighton last week, and the club has been charged by the FA.

Symons will stick with Ross McCormack and Matt Smith up front, after both scored last time out.

Rotherham have Mat Sadler available after his loan spell at Oldham Athletic came to an end.

Striker Danny Ward could be back after injury.

UNITED LEGEND MAKES BOLD PREDICTION

Cantona backs 'kings of Manchester'

MANCHESTER United legend Eric Cantona is backing his old club to win next season's Premier League.

The Frenchman, 48, was thrilled by Sunday's derby demolition of noisy neighbours City.

He labelled United as "kings of the city" after the 4-2 win.

United are locked in a chase for second with Arsenal but Cantona said they will do even better next term.

He said: "The derby's a special game, so it's great to win the derby."

"I was proud and very glad. It's good because now they are the kings of the city."

The two clubs are two of the best clubs in England, so it's very important to win this game.

Philosophy

"United's a great club but sometimes you have a season where you have to lose games and you finish fourth or fifth.

"Next year they can win the league."

"With a manager from Holland, it seems to be important for Manchester United because it's the same kind of philosophy for the game; Holland and Manchester United."

Cantona threw himself into an acting career after leaving United.

He certainly makes a mean lager advert. But he claimed he barely watches football any more although his interest in United, and support, remains strong, praising them for their academy and likening them to Barcelona.

The man who is credited with Sir Alex Ferguson's first league title for United believes it is home grown talent that has made United serial winners in the past.

He says that is why City,

for one, are struggling to replicate United's reign of terror now.

He added: "English football is so exciting because you have so many clubs that can win the league."

"City have won the league twice, so they have been successful, also."

"But they cannot win every year because the Premier League is so strong, it has so many clubs, so many rich clubs also, and so many clubs who work on young players.

Cantona highlighted the short-term planning at the Etihad. He said: "It takes time for young players. Maybe City try to do something but it takes time. Maybe they work hard on young players, I don't know. We will see."

"But it hasn't come along. You can build a team with a lot of money and, the next day, you can win the league."

"But, with young players, you need 10 years. You have to wait until the young players are ready to play for the first team. So maybe they will, maybe Chelsea will also. But I think it's very important."

Planning

City, in contrast, have fielded no home-grown players in their first team since they became a force in English football, and Chelsea have relied on very few.

DROP ZONE

LATEST ON THE BATTLE FOR PREMIER LEAGUE SURVIVAL

SO who is going down and we are not talking Jordan or her mates.

Squeaky bum time doesn't enter into it so here we look at the contenders to take the fatal fall.

This is shaping into a classic relegation scramble. Panic in the streets of London, panic in the streets of Birmingham.

OK that was The Smiths and but you catch our drift; and the bottom five are tonight sweating like a sex offender on the roof of Strangeways.

Newcastle have done the bare minimum to ensure survival. Tony Pulis should bully West Brom into staying up.

Tim Sherwood is one win away from installation as an Aston Villa legend.

But logic suggests the bottom five clubs are bang in trouble. Who will save themselves? Our predictions might surprise you.

LEICESTER CITY

Run-in: Swans (H), Burnley (A), Chelsea (H), Newcastle (H), Southampton (H), Sunderland (A), QPR (H)

The signs are promising. Leicester have five home games in seven. The FA fixtures computer must be less reliable than mine.

They remain bottom, but have the attitude problem of a punk rocker who just had his benefit cheque cancelled following two unexpected victories at the perfect time. Much will depend on whether manager Nigel Pearson has the courage of his convictions.

The experience of Esteban Cambiasso, the pace of Jamie Vardy and street smarts of David Nugent suggest they have the potential to play their way out of trouble.

BURNLEY

Run-in: Everton (A), Leicester (H), West Ham (A), Hull (A), Stoke (H), Aston Villa (A)

Sean Dyche should have been manager of the year in 2014, for getting Burnley promoted to the Premier League on a meagre budget. He will be even more deserving of the accolade in 2015 if he succeeds in keeping them up, against prohibitive odds.

It will be a sin if somebody beats him to it.

Dyche's team have more spirit than Oddbins but they could do with more spark than relying on Danny Ings in front of the bangers. The run-in offers comfort though, don't write them off.

SUNDERLAND

Run-in: Stoke (A), Southampton (H), Everton (A), Leicester (H), Arsenal (A), Chelsea (A)

Dick Advocaat went a little early with his boasts of managerial infallibility, following Sunderland's win in the North East derby.

You have to love Newcastle fans. As Newcastle lost to Liverpool on Monday night they were singing: "You're nothing special, we lose every week."

Persistent collapses hint that Advocaat has inherited a team of dubious character...

Defensively shambolic in their latest surrender, against Palace, they will need to have given themselves breathing space before the season ends with two forbidding away games. The visit of Leicester looks like a shoot-out at the OK Corral.

QUEENS PARK RANGERS

Run-in: West Ham (H), Liverpool (A), Manchester City (A), Newcastle (H), Leicester (A)

Chris Ramsey is a likeable man, an excellent coach, and a rookie manager who was given a hospital pass by his predecessor, Harry Redknapp.

His dejection, after a cruel defeat by Chelsea, was plain for Stevie Wonder to see. They should win their two home games, since West Ham and Newcastle already have the flip-flops on, and it may come down to a winner-takes-all trip to Leicester on the final day.

HULL CITY

Run-in: Liverpool (H), Crystal Palace (A), Arsenal (H), Burnley (H), Tottenham (A), Manchester United (H)

The football Gods like a chuckle every now and again. The prospect of Steve Bruce being relegated at Old Trafford, where he shed pints of blood for Manchester United's cause, seems too enticing for them to resist.

Hull are a classic case of a team sleepwalking into trouble. They have a daunting run-in, and are beset by injuries. Big signings are underachieving. Bruce may consider himself lucky to have just signed a new three-year deal.

Ta-ta Stevie lad.

...AND THE VERDICT

Hull, Sunderland and QPR go down. Sorry boys.

STERLING TOPS WISHLIST

By JOHN ANTHONY

UNSETTLED Raheem Sterling will be top of the Etihad summer shopping list as City retool their troops.

The Liverpool ace scored in Monday's 2-0 win over Newcastle and quite possibly could have had a hat-trick.

He left Anfield to a standing ovation as the fans made it clear they want him to stay.

But that won't deter City, one of a number of clubs watching Sterling's contract difficulties with interest.

An insider said: "City will break the bank to see Raheem line up in a blue shirt next season."

Sterling's goal was the 11th of the campaign and it made him Anfield's top scorer of the season.

But controversy has dogged the youngster since his ill-advised interview about his future and allegations emerged at the weekend of him taking a "legal high" drug, laughing gas.

But the insider added: "That won't put the owners off. The only legal high Manchester City supporters are interested in is watching Sterling smash in the goals at the Etihad."

City might also launch an audacious swoop for Sterling's strike partner Daniel Sturridge if he can put his injury-blighted season behind him.

But Anfield boss Brendan Rodgers has insisted all along that his side are not a selling side and City will face a fight to prise either player from Liverpool's grip.

FACE HUGE FIGHT FOR FOURTH

AXE FALLS ON BLUE BOTTLEDERS

City chief ready to splash cash

By MIKE MURRAY

MANCHESTER City are on the brink of a massive summer clearout.

OUT go Yaya Toure, Edin Dzeko, and Samir Nasri.

Others will be shown the door too when owner Khaldoon Al Mubarak jets in for the annual performance reviews which take place at the end of the season.

Some of the City directors will be sleeping uneasily too — chief executive Ferran Soriano and football director Txiki Begiristain have been warned their futures are not secure.

But manager Manuel Pellegrini stays, unless City implode and drop out of the Champions League places.

This season's slide has been spectacular.

Clinging

On New Year's Day Manchester City sat proudly at the top of the Premier League with promising Champions League hopes and FA Cup dreams to come.

Now they are clinging on to fourth and facing the prospect of Champions League qualifying rounds against, potentially, the likes of Roma, Sporting Lisbon and Monaco.

Pellegrini has six games left to halt the reigning champions fall from grace.

City's England goalkeeper Joe Hart described the 4-2 drubbing at United as one of the worst experiences of his

NOT HAPPY:
City owner
Khaldoon Al
Mubarak

career. He said: "That was one of my worst days in a Man City shirt, definitely."

"It is hard to take. We have won enough of them to know how to lose properly and we were not good enough after the first 15 minutes."

"We let ourselves down and we let our supporters down."

"Now we have six games to go and each one is massive for us."

Hart had the finger pointed at him as one of the players who under-performed at Old Trafford.

But his place in Pellegrini's squad is secure.

He added: "It would be easier to win games if we knew what was wrong with us but we have played well and been unfortunate in some games."

Blaming bad luck will not be good enough for Al Mubarak who has watched his cash-splashed side win only four of their last 15 games in all competitions.

Hart added: "Not many teams have put us to the sword like that."

"United knew what they are doing, they took their chances. I didn't have an overly busy day but United took their chances."

City are now adrift of United and Arsenal, and are nervously looking over their shoulders at Southampton and Liverpool who closed the gap to four points with a 2-0 win over Newcastle on Monday night.

But Hart says it is vital that City finish third, and so avoid having a tricky two-legged play-off in August to qualify for the group stages of the Champions League.

Hopes

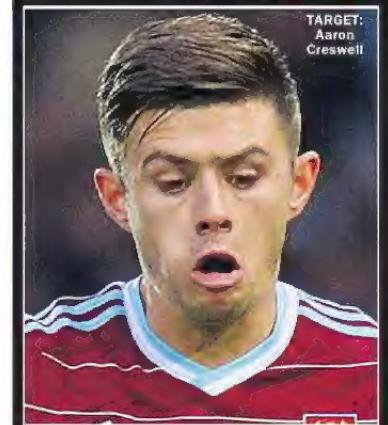

At that point, City could still be active in the market, with players knowing they are leaving, and new faces yet to arrive.

The Blues still have to go to Spurs, who also retain faint hopes of sneaking into a qualifying place, and the final game of the season, at home to Southampton, could yet take on big significance.

But four of their final six games are at home and the visits of West Ham, Aston Villa, and Queen's Park Rangers ought normally to deliver nine points.

But City's capitulation has been anything but normal.

And the fight to scrape above the Gunners and United, or at worst cling on to fourth, is most definitely on.

TARGET:
Aaron
Creswell

Chelsea in move for Creswell

By JOHN ANTHONY

CHELSEA have fired a transfer shot across West Ham's bows over the Boleyn Ground's talented defender Aaron Creswell.

But they face a fight. The Hammers are determined to hang on to their asset and boss Sam Allardyce won't loosen his grip easily.

Chelsea top man Jose Mourinho is a big admirer of the 25-year-old and the Blues manager will need a left-back if Filipe Luis returns to Atletico Madrid at the end of this season after just one campaign at Stamford Bridge. Manchester City are also reported to be keeping a close eye on Creswell, who has shone since arriving from Ipswich for £2m.

West Ham are determined to resist any offers for the player but are reluctantly to offer him a new contract because he signed a five-year deal when joining from the Championship club last July.

Creswell is the firm favourite to be named the club's Hammer of the Year and has featured in every Premier League match this season.

NO DEAL: Allardyce

— Carlton Cole — for the at the Etihad. Cole has targeted a possible move to the MLS if his contract is not renewed this summer.

"I love it here," said the 31-year-old. "I love the fans, everything about West Ham but I know all good things do come to an end and sometimes you have got to just crack on."

Hopeful

He has scored two goals including a spectacular free-kick in last weekend's 1-1 draw with Stoke.

That match saw Diafra Sakho tear a thigh muscle and although he looks likely to be out for at least a month, West Ham are still hopeful the striker will play again this season.

The Hammers' last game of the campaign is at Newcastle on May 24.

Enner Valencia was also injured against Stoke but there is a chance he could be fit to play at Manchester City on Sunday.

If both are ruled out, Allardyce would be left with just one fit striker.

"They want to acquire him in the summer."

BLUE MURDER IN MANCHESTER TOURE'S VOTED OUT

Yaya gets blame for City woes

By TREVOR CLEMENTS

MANCHESTER City flops Yaya Toure, Edin Dzoko and Samir Nasri will shoulder the blame for this season's failure.

Boss Manuel Pellegrini's job is safe... for now. But if City fall out of the top four he will follow his players out of the door.

City's boardroom boys are still smarting after Sunday's abject surrender to United in the Manchester derby. And the blame is being laid at the door of the players rather than the manager.

These three big names will be allowed to leave in the summer. Others will follow.

But long-term contracts and high wages could pose a problem if any choose to dig their heels in.

Pellegrini (right) has been under fire since the turn of the year when City started slipping from top to fourth as well as making undignified exits from the Champions League and FA Cup.

But the Blues chairman Khaldoon Al Mubarak, chief executive Ferran Soriano and football director Txiki Begiristain won't hit the panic button until the season ends.
